

STOWE CHAPEL

BOOK OF REMEMBRANCE

1939—1945

The War Memorial which is to be dedicated today by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury has been designed by Mr. J. F. Matthew, partner of the late Sir Robert Lorimer architect of the Chapel. It consists both of an expanse of oak panelling, which bears in gold relief the names and initials of the two hundred and seventy Old Stoics killed in the war, and of a "shrine" of carved oak, in the centre of which is the case for the Book of Remembrance. This book contains two hundred and seventy vellum pages on which will be inscribed in black and gold the full names of the men killed, together with certain other particulars concerning them. The pages have not yet been inscribed, and the work of inscribing them will of necessity take a long time since it must all be done by hand by the artist who has undertaken the task, but the Book has been made up and bound and one page has been completed in order that visitors may see how the later pages will appear. In the meantime the printed copies will indicate what particulars are to be included.

8th June, 1949.

Killed in Action at Termoli Italy 5th October 1943

The King has approved the award of the Victoria Cross to :—

LIEUTENANT (TEMPORARY CAPTAIN) (ACTING MAJOR) JOHN THOMSON MCKELLAR ANDERSON, D.S.O., The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders (Princess Louise's).

For conspicuous gallantry and outstanding devotion to duty during the attack on "Longstop" Hill, Tunisia, on April 23, 1943.

Over a period of five hours Major Anderson led the attack through intense enemy machine-gun and mortar fire. As leading company commander he led the assault on the battalion's first objective, in daylight, over a long expanse of open sloping hillside and most of the time without the effective cover of smoke. Enemy infantry opposition was most determined, and very heavy casualties were sustained, including all other rifle company commanders, before even the first objective was reached.

On the first objective and still under continual enemy fire, Major Anderson reorganized the battalion and rallied men whose commanders, in most cases, had been either killed or wounded. The commanding officer having been killed, he took command of the battalion and led the assault on the second objective. During this assault he received a leg wound, but in spite of this he carried on and finally captured "Longstop" Hill with a total force of only four officers and less than 40 other ranks. Fire had been so intense during this stage of the attack that the remainder of the battalion were pinned down and unable to advance until Major Anderson had successfully occupied the hill.

During the assault he personally led attacks on at least three enemy machine-gun positions and in every case was the first man into the enemy pits ; he also led a successful attack on an enemy mortar position of four mortars, defended by over 30 of the enemy.

Major Anderson's force on the hill captured about 200 prisoners and killed many more during the attack. It is largely due to this officer's bravery and daring that "Longstop" Hill was captured, and it was the inspiration of his example which encouraged leaderless men to continue the advance.
